

WELCOME TO THE SICHERHEIT TRADE FAIR

Ever shorter innovation cycles and fast-paced technological changes compel us daily to adapt to market requirements, current developments and emerging trends. This applies to both product development and marketing activities. Everyone is looking for innovative concepts with a compelling marketing mix: this is where the specialist trade fair comes into its own as an attractive platform for business and networking between all market participants – be they clients, suppliers, partners or multipliers.

Relocating the sicherheit trade fair to Basel doubles the power of two parallel trade shows and makes it possible to exploit the resulting high synergy potentials. Integrating the security trade fair sicherheit with ineltec, the successful trade fair for building technology, offers unique opportunities in this regard: more visitors, more exhibition space, an opportunity to provide interdisciplinary answers and attractive focus events on the topic of cyber defence.

Get to know the new trade fair duo. Find out how you can double your benefit. Let's exploit this unique opportunity together. We look forward to tapping into the potential of this cooperation together with you and to striking new paths of innovation.

WELCOME TO THE MOST SECURE TRADE FAIR IN SWITZERLAND

Welcoming the new, maintaining the proven: sicherheit is the most important B2B platform and meeting place for Switzerland's security segment. It is characterised by a unique range of topics and the entire spectrum of innovative security concepts. As a combination of trade fair and specialist convention, it offers a comprehensive bundle of market and specialised knowledge under one roof.

It takes place in parallel to the ineltec building technology trade fair. Together, they will in future open up new opportunities and views of interfaces and mutual content such as networking, convenience and security. The holistic trade fair concept and the platform shared by ineltec and sicherheit accommodate the convergence in the marketplace: segments that were once clearly separated – such as security, building automation, Smart Home and energy distribution – are converging. Exhibitors at sicherheit stand to benefit from a unique visitor potential: up to 3,600 additional specialists with a real interest in building security and a further 13,500 specialists from the wider field of electrical engineering. The fundamental changes heralded by digitisation also affect the security segment – bringing with them new challenges, new answers to new threats and new opportunities. sicherheit has therefore created "Cyfence", a new supplementary event supporting the exchange on topics of relevance to digital security.

The trade fair will feature a series of supporting lectures in four half-day modules on topics concerning current risk management, security and fire safety. These practice-based and solution-oriented lectures will take place at a forum directly inside the exhibition hall to enable participants to access and exit the events directly from the exhibition. Organisation in cooperation with SAVE AG.

"Cyfence" is the new 360° platform for cyber defence in Switzerland. The event bundles all the major IT security topics together with solution providers and those involved in the security process. It provides information on various knowledge levels, highlights new strategic and holistic approaches and delivers a realistic outlook on future challenges that will face IT security. In addition, executing the sicherheit and ineltec trade fairs in parallel provides visitors with many interesting interfaces to topics such as IoT, Smart Building, identity and access management.
